

CONGRESS MAY PROBE THE "MONEY TRUST"

HOUSE COMMITTEE ON RULES RESUMES HEARINGS ON LINDBERGH RESOLUTION.

ACT ON STEEL TARIFF

Speedy Action on Steel and Iron Schedules Foreshadowed—Eight Hour Bill Considered.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The house committee on rules today resumed its hearings on the Lindbergh resolution for a special inquiry into the "money trust" with Samuel Untermyer of New York, as a witness.

Mr. Untermyer said he did not appear as a sponsor nor champion of the Lindbergh resolution but he was satisfied congress could not legislate intelligently with respect to a monetary system until the question of concentration of the "money power" was fully understood.

For that reason, he said he favored the proposed investigation providing it was conducted in a conservative systematic, painstaking, non-partisan spirit with the sole object of exposing the weakness and abuses of the system and as the basis for conservative legislation.

Mr. Untermyer stated that there was no such thing as a "money trust" in the sense that the word "trust" is applied to illegal combination. He believed however the proposed investigation would establish that the present financial condition is due to the concentration of funds of great corporations in New York City.

Black River Falls Case Demands Immediate Action, According to Speaker of Assembly.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 26.—Following a long conference with Gov. McGovern, Speaker C. A. Ingram said the situation at Black River Falls is much more acute than press reports have indicated. He did not know whether the governor would call a special session of the legislature, he said, but when he believed the exigencies of the situation demand such action, "No state as wealthy and prosperous as this," he said, "should hesitate to extend aid when a great disaster falls upon any of its citizens. In the history of the state this action has been taken a number of times. To vote a substantial sum for protecting the city of Black River Falls would be only humanitarian and in the line of duty."

The speaker said the cost will be light, as only mileage need be paid the legislators and only a few clerks and pages would need to be recalled for a short session.

SESSIONS OF BOARD DELAYED IN CLOSING

In Response to Pleas of Petitioners Board of Review Continued Its Sessions Through Day.

Instead of closing its hearings last evening as they had planned the Board of Review in response to the petitions of tardy complainants continued its sessions through today.

T. P. Burns appeared in behalf of the Burns Hatting Company and petitioned for a reduction in the valuation of their factory, which he subsequently withdrew. He admitted misapprehension as to the basis of assessment, having understood that the valuation was of the factory building dismantled instead of as a going concern.

The assessors cited the Supreme Court decision in the case of the state versus N. C. Foster Lumber Company in support of their position.

A protest as to the valuation of the merchants' and manufacturers' stock in his store, was entered by Mr. Burns this morning. He asked a reduction of one-third in the assessment, which was 29,000, declaring that, approximately, that amount of dead stock was carried by all merchants in the city dealing in the same class of goods he did. In response to a question put by Assessor Cowles, he stated that the insurance on the stock was $21,500, an amount considerably less than the inventory value. Mr. Burns also asked a reduction in the assessment of his store fixtures from $1,100.

Mr. A. J. Cowles was sworn and took the stand in defense of the assessors' valuations. He declared that only one out of a third of inventory value had been made by the assessors here, and that for very obvious reasons. He considered the cut to $1,400 from the original cost price of $2,700, a reasonable one. As to the stock, he considered the insurance carried justifying the assessment.

A. A. Jackson, attorney for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, has requested that a number of the company's lots in this city, which were reassessed, be withdrawn from the tax rolls. He contends that the lots came under the heading of "right of way" and therefore are assessable by the state only.

At the board's session today was devoted to hearing the arguments advanced by Attorney Jackson in support of his contention. Today, definitely closed the public hearings of the board, the rest of whose sessions will be given over to consideration of and judgment on the stenographic testimony.

Assessors L. P. Jernard and W. J. Freeman left this afternoon for Madison. They made the valuation of the property public utilities and factories jointly by the State and Tax Commissioners. They have no more work to do here, except to affix their signatures to the tax rolls after all alterations and corrections have been made by the Board of Review.

CHECK BOOKS WERE GIVEN AS EVIDENCE

Judge in Dynamiting Investigation Insists That J. J. McNamara's Books be Introduced.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—Attempts to withhold J. J. McNamara's check book in the government investigation in the dynamiting conspiracy were blocked by Federal Judge A. B. Anderson today in an order directing Leo M. Rapaport, an attorney, to appear at once before the federal grand jury and turn over the evidence required.

As counsel for McNamara, the convicted dynamiter, Rapaport declares that whatever checkbooks, stubs and cancelled checks McNamara has given him were privileged communications and could not be demanded as evidence.

Rapaport had been ordered to appear before the grand jury, but he resisted by a motion to quash the subpoena, and Judge Anderson ruled the check books were as material evidence.

ELECTION RESULTS UNCERTAIN; EXPECT EARLY DISSOLUTION

Berlin, Jan. 26.—No two accounts of the composition of the new Reichstag agree exactly, owing to one or two doubtful results, and the likelihood of classifying definitely a few members of nondescript petty groups.

The only certainty is that the alliance of the conservatives with the clerical center party which controlled two hundred and eight of the three hundred and ninety-seven mandates in the last Reichstag, has been overthrown. "CINDERELLA" WITH MABEL TALIAFERRO

Another superb Three-Reel Attraction Saturday at the LYRIC

Cinderella's mother dies and her father marries a cruel widow with two ugly daughters of her own disposition. The poor Cinderella is soon forced to act as "nanny" to the tyrannical stepmother and her daughters. They abuse and mistreat her and finally turn her out of the house. The girl, foot-sore and weary, takes refuge in a deserted garden. Prince Charming refuses to marry the girl the King chooses for him and is thrust into prison. He makes his escape and by a strange coincidence attempts to hide in the same deserted garden that Cinderella has chosen. The Prince has changed his heart for that of a milk vendor and in this apparel he meets Cinderella, who is also in rags. With each it is a case of love at first sight. He gives her a ring and she allows him to kiss and keep a lock of her hair. The girl, now refreshed and happy, returns to her home, while the Prince dreams of his girl in tatters. The King issues a proclamation announcing that if the Prince will return he may marry whomever he will. The Prince, joyous, returns. Cinderella, now happy and carefree, pays little heed to her daily abuse and ill-treatment. She finds great comfort and solace in the ring and memories, until one day the Prince is pointed out to her, and in him she recognizes her milk vendor. And so again her childhood dreams are shattered. The King gives a grand ball in honor of his son. The stepmother and sisters go, leaving Cinderella behind broken-hearted. Her fairy Godmother then comes to her assistance, however, making it possible for Cinderella to attend the ball, the only requirement being that Cinderella leave the palace before midnight. Cinderella agrees and departs for the ball in state. At the ball, Cinderella captivates the Prince and his guests with her beauty and mischievousness. To him she looks familiar, but she steadfastly refuses to divulge her identity. Cinderella so thoroughly enjoys her evening with the Prince that she forgets the approaching midnight hour until it arrives. Then suddenly, remembering her Godmother's admonition, she rushes from the palace, but in doing so she loses one of her silver slippers. Later the Prince finds the slipper, and sends his courtiers throughout the land, announcing that the owner of the foot that fits the slipper shall be his wife. Cinderella, by chance, is granted permission to try on the slipper and lo—she becomes a Princess.

City Clerk R. M. Cummings yesterday certified to Secretary of State James Fear that a majority of the votes cast in the recent election on the question of adopting the commission plan of city government were cast in favor of the proposition and thereby becomes the duty of the Secretary to issue a patent to the city of Janesville as provided in Section 925 of the statutes. Clerk Cummings also requested that he be sent all blanks and papers necessary for the inauguration of the new government.

The form of petition which must be filed by those desiring to become a candidate for commissioner before the primary contains in addition to the request that the name of the candidate be placed on the official ballot this clause: andorsed by the signers: "We further state that we know him to be a man of good moral character and qualified in our judgment for the duties of the office and that residence not being required he is otherwise a qualified elector."

Would-be candidates must file in addition to the petition signed by at least twenty-five qualified voters, a statement of their candidacy in the prescribed statutory form. This as well as the petition must be filed not less than twenty days before the primary.

Any such petition shall be open to the inspection of the public and shall be verified by the city clerk on order of the council or on the petition of five per cent of the entire vote cast for all candidates for mayor at the last municipal election, and to this end the council shall allow the city clerk extra assistance if necessary.

Immediately upon the expiration of the time for filing such statements and petitions for candidates the city clerk shall cause to be published for three successive days in all the daily newspapers published in the city the names of the persons as they are to appear on the primary ballot, and shall cause the primary ballot to be printed over his signature.

Filing of statements and declaration of petitions by candidates before the primary will have to wait the printing of the ballot or their acquisition by the City Clerk whose duty it is to furnish them to applicants.

FISH STORY FROM KANSAS

Tannin Acid From the Autumn Leaves Makes the Fluffy Tribe an Easy Prey.

Two years ago a curious paragraph went the rounds of the press. It stated that an analysis of the water in the Marles du Cygne river revealed the presence of tannic acid. No cause was assigned. But Mr. Stranger, a limply stream that gurgles across the northeast corner of Kansas and pours its gossip into the Kaw, held this secret nine years ago, and local residents kept mum and profited accordingly. Now, the fourth time in 14 seasons, that same tannic acid is troubling the Strangers' waters until they run black as ink; and cat, carp, bass and buffalo, in a coma, but entirely edible, are crowding the banks; their heads uplifted in quest of air. The tannic acid, drawn from autumn leaves which recent high winds deposited in the stream, drives the fish to the surface, where they collect in ripples or fresh water inlets, or try to climb the banks. Thus they are easy prey, and are taken out in nets, scooped up with shovels, and taken to market or gathered into the salted fish supply of the community. Mr. Stranger, which is well wooded and generally steep banked, carries the biggest fish stock in its part of the state and has no known rival in the tannic acid feat.

Good Big Job.

Several New York school teachers recently paid a visit to Bloomington insane asylum and were approached by a gentleman who showed them about the grounds. In the course of his remarks he dwelt with particular emphasis on the fact that some insane people were of such cunning that one could not discover their condition except by some strange remark let fall by chance.

After two pleasant hours spent in the company of their guide the teachers were about to return, when one of them, wishing to take a not too abrupt leave, remarked:

"Time must pass slowly here for you among so many lunatics."

"There is where you are wrong," replied the man. "I am engaged five hours a day in my life work."

"How interesting!" cooed the teachers.

The man produced a roll of manuscript.

"See, I am making an index to Webster's dictionary."

BREAKS UP A COLD IN SEVERAL HOURS

Most effective and harmless way to cure a severe cold and end all Grippe misery.

There is not one grain of quinine in Pape's Cold Compound, which, when taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will surely end the grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, catarrhal affections, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made any where else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

CASCARETS FOR A SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Gently but thoroughly cleanse and regulate your Stomach, Liver and Bowels while you sleep.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating, after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means indigestion; a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they cure indigestion, because they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended for your stomach tonight will straighten out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

NATIONALS TO PLAY CARDINALS TONIGHT

Team From Gotham Enjoying Many Victories After Long Tour, Here for Basketball Game Tonight.

Basketball fans are confident that the Lakota Cardinals will give the New York Nationals a hard contest at the rink tonight, but they are none too certain that the score will read in favor of the local favorites at the end of the play. The Gotham aggregation comes to Janesville after a long string of victories in their tour of over a thousand miles, covering five or six states. Only twice since leaving New York has it felt to their lot to be defeated, and the scores in both cases were none too decisive.

The interest in this game has been fully aroused on account of the fact that the Cardinals have never engaged in a game against a team from New York City, or from any eastern point. The opportunity to meet the best of the eastern aggregations tonight is seldom offered and a larger attendance than usual is anticipated.

Giving Him the Limit.
The reply of Henry Clay Dean, the famous Missouri lawyer of the early days, to a man accused of unspeakable crime, is historic. The man asked the lawyer to defend him and admitted to him his guilt. "No," said Dean, "I will not defend you. You ought to be shot out of a red-hot cannon, through a barbed wire fence into hell."

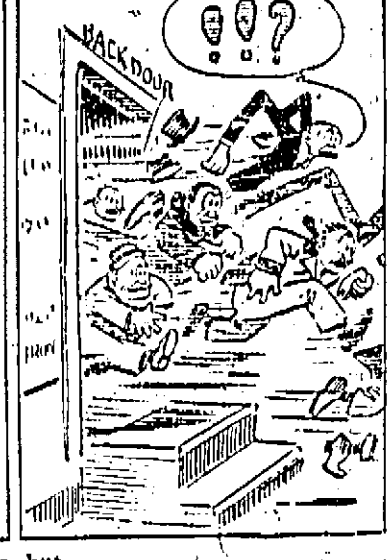

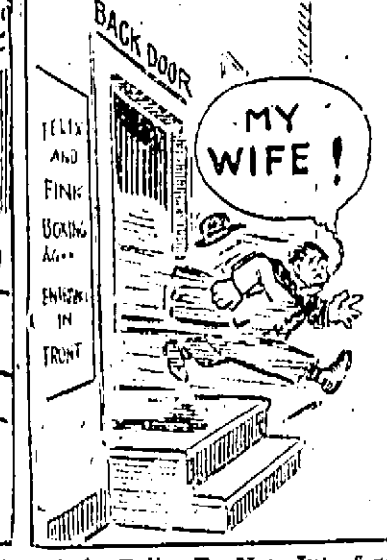

RALPH ROSE

NEW WORLD'S RECORD FOR ROSE.

San Francisco.—Before 5,000 spectators, Ralph Rose, who for the last few years has been taking an active part in athletics, jumped into the limelight again by establishing a world's indoor record with a rubber 16-inch shot when he sent the missile 48 feet and 9½ inches at the meeting held at the Olympic Club at the Auditorium.

The great shot putter showed that he has retained all his wonderful ability, and his work last night makes his claim for recognition on the American team to go to Stockholm one that the selectors can not overlook. The record was made last night in Rose's second put. He had great style and he got a great drive back of the shot. When the officials announced the distance and that it was a new world's record for that particular kind of shot, the giant roared a tremendous shout. The former record was made by Harry in Mayne of Harvard with a put of 46 feet 10 inches.

BURNS ANNIVERSARY PROGRAM SUCCESSFUL

Weatherwax Quartette Numbers Thoroughly Enjoyed—Attendance
Taxed Capacity of Central Hall.

Thoroughly in harmony with the spirit of the occasion and worthy of high praise for the excellence of its composition and rendition, the program given by the Weatherwax Quartette at Central Hall last evening under the auspices of the Caledonian Society as the central feature of its Burns anniversary celebration gave solid enjoyment for two hours to a large audience.

The Weatherwax Brothers proved themselves matchless entertainers, from all stiffness of deportment, and capable of interesting their hearers in a wide variety of selections. As a vocal quartette they exhibited unusual harmony, their voices blending as closely as the different notes of a well-tuned instrument. They were liberal in their encores, most of them being of a humorous order and were acted out in an unaffected manner that created much merriment in the audience.

The trumpet numbers were a pleasing novelty which made one wish that this instrument was more generally used in concert music. The brothers in the use of these instruments displayed the same delicate ear for harmony that they did in their vocal selections.

Selection Weatherwax gave the first reading on the program, a pathetic number very effectively, and the others by William Weatherwax were all fearfully humorous.

Quadrilles, Scotch and Virginia reels, and other dances dear to the hearts of the older generation made up a large part of the dance program which followed, although waltzes, two steps and the burlesque were given their place. Kueck's full orchestra furnished music for the dancers whose great number taxed the capacity of the hall, and it was at an early hour that the crowd broke up.

Scotchmen and their descendants from several miles distant came to attend the anniversary celebration.

P. J. Mount before the opening of the program spoke a few words of welcome, extending true Scotch hospitality.

NEW LEASE ON LIFE FOR WISCONSIN MAN

UNITED DOCTORS PERFORM MIRACLES IN CURING MAN OF NINETEEN YEAR AGE.

Nearly half an average lifetime spent in misery is the terrible experience of Clara Carlson of 1008 12th street, Racine, Wis. No one but Mr. Carlson himself can probably realize the suffering and misery of almost twenty years of stomach trouble. The hardest part, perhaps of all, is to see healthy, happy people on all sides who seem not to know what sickness is.

Mr. Carlson owes his present good health to the remarkable treatment of the United Doctors who have their Janesville Institute in the Hayes Bldg., corner of Milwaukee and Main Streets. Mr. Carlson in mentioning his years of illness says as follows: "For nineteen years I have been in continual pain. Only a year ago last April I had a hemorrhage from my stomach. My pain has been so great I could not eat and was in as bad shape as a man could be and live. I thought myself far beyond the possibility of ever being cured for—nineteen years of misery is no light thing and one begins to think and wonder if he can again be normal and healthy like most other people—eat, drink and sleep as they do. I have tried almost every cure I ever heard of and numerous doctors but my condition remained the same until I went to the United Doctors on May 22, 1911. I went to them to give their new system of medicine a trial though I was in a very skeptical frame of mind. Now here is the part that will interest sick and ailing people: In three days' time I felt greatly improved and in one week I had no pain and I was able to eat heartily. I wish that every man and woman who has lost hope of being cured could see this statement and understand what the United Doctors have done for me. I want this printed for me. I will know that I have in a small way helped to bring hope to others. I have no doubt whatever I will never have pain again. It is the turn of the tide and I no longer dread the future though I am now fifty years of age. I am married and I live a better, happier and healthier future ahead of me now than I have had before in nineteen years."

People often travel hundreds of miles to be treated by the United Doctors and their wonderful new system of treatment. They never use the knife or cut into the body. The United Doctors' Janesville Institute is in the Hayes Bldg.

Many marvelous cures have been accomplished already in Janesville and the surrounding country by these specialists of almost every conceivable disease and ailment.

REASON OF SMALL FAMILY.
In Large Communities the Struggle for Existence Already is Much Too Severe.

It must be remembered that as increase of population progresses, the mere fact of increase creates new conditions. These in turn may check or destroy earlier tendencies. Thus, out of the great increase in population in our time has come already at least one significant fact. This may be termed "the pressure of population." It may be defined as the general instinctive realization of this realization appears in the decreasing belief that personal responsibility rests upon the individual to rear a large family, or even, in many cases, to become a parent. Mere numbers—the pressure of humanity on all sides, especially in the large cities—constitute ever-present evidence to the average man and woman that there are people enough and the struggle for existence is too severe already to be increased by unnecessary burdens. In consequence, there has arisen a rather remarkable and widespread tendency, now clearly evident in most of the larger communities of Europe, voluntarily to limit the family. The effect of this tendency is most marked in France, where it has produced a present state of equilibrium of population liable to be changed at any time into a positive national decrease. Limitation of family has also appeared in other parts of the world and has caused much concern in Australia, where a very small total white population is shown. It should not be overlooked, however, in connection with the apparently exceptional problem presented by Australia, that the southern continent seems never to have sustained a large population. The aborigines of Austria, New Zealand and those that remain are dying out so rapidly as to suggest a very frail racial grasp upon existence.—The Atlantic.

Odd Nest.
A curious freak on the part of wasps was recently discovered in Maryland. The wasps were noticed going in and out of a lock that secured a workshop door. The owner of the shop had the lock removed to satisfy his curiosity about the doings of the busy workers. He found a nest inside. The cells were made of mud and were full of larvae. There were several dead wasps inside the lock. As the lock was in daily use, the wasps could not have had a peaceful home.

Blame Electric Lamp.
The Glasgow board of trade court is investigating the loss of a local steamship which stranded in a mysterious manner. The only theory offered to account for the mishap is that an electric lamp in the pocket of the lookout man deflected the compass. The man admitted that he had been leaning against the binnacle just before the vessel stranded.

India Not a Nation.
There is no Indian nation, and the nations of India differ, not only in their interests, history and tradition, but they differ in regard to race, feeling, and there is strong hatred and jealousy between parts of India still. There is nothing that keeps the peace in India but British rule.

MANY MOURN LOSS OF CONSIDERABLE MONEY

General Trimming up by Clever Manipulator on Strength of Being Well Known Athlete.

They tell a strange story about town these past few days of a hotel keeper, a dozen saloon proprietors, a city official and several prominent citizens, who have all lost faith in humanity and the aspiring baseball athletes in general. It is reported that a base ball pitcher of fame, in fact a member of one of the big teams of the National league, arrived in Janesville some few weeks ago. He told a good story, remembered all the old friends, and before leaving, to go to Chicago to secure some more money, managed to cash a check or two, stand off a local hotel man for a bar and hotel bill and borrow money to reach the big city.

This story was that he had lost his pocketbook in the postoffice. Great mystery surrounds the whole affair and names are most zealously guarded as to who lost the money. However a list could be published if desired.

PASTOR RUSSELL BIDS FAREWELL TO CHINA

Chinese Quietness and Courtesy Examples to Christendom.

The Pastor Did Not Advise Chinese to Become Identified With the Sects of Christendom—Told Them That the God of the Bible is All-Loving and Ever-Merciful and Not a God Who Would Torture Them or Their Ancestors.

Hong Kong, China, Jan. 24.—The Foreign Mission Investigation Committee of the International Bible Students Association spent several days in Hong Kong, Canton and vicinity. For efficiency they divided, some giving more attention to one and others to another phase of missionary interest. Pastor Russell's address to the Chinese in Hong Kong in their fine Chinese Hall Auditorium was both helpful and encouraging. He directed special attention to the words of St. Paul, applicable to humanity in general and to the present time specially to the Chinese: "The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now—waiting for the manifestation of the sons of God."—Romans viii, 22.

China's war experiences in recent years have been severe trials, particularly to a people of their temperament—peace-loving, gentle, courteous to each other and to foreigners. He had been told that their courtesy of manner arose, not from love and sympathy, but from law and custom centuries old. He could not judge the heart, but had sincerely wished that some of the favored race of so-called Christendom possessed in a larger degree some of the admirable traits of the Chinese—their respectful demeanor, their courtesy, civility and energy.

The God of All Grace.

It shall not be my mission, said Pastor Russell, to urge you to become identified with any sects of Christendom, nor to recommend to you any of their creeds. Nevertheless, in all of those creeds there is more or less of the most wonderful truth that ever came to the ears of humanity; but, alas! in a darker period it became so mixed with human tradition as to be today dishonored to God and offensive to the intelligence of many. I can readily see reasons why you have not been more influenced by Christianity. Very properly your heads and hearts refused adherence and worship to One whom you were told had forfeited the eternal torment of your ancestors and all mankind except a favored few.

I may never again have the opportunity of addressing you, but, therefore, tell you now of another Christianity (of which probably you have never before heard) from the same Bible used by the missionaries here and confessed by all to be God's Message, but a very different Message from that which my brethren here confess.

"Waiting for the Sons of God."

My text declares that the relief for the groaning creation waits for the manifestation of the sons of God. Jesus, as the pre-eminent Son of God, died for our sins and ascended to the right hand of Divine Majesty, where He is waiting and meantime the groaning creation must wait also for the same thing—for the manifestation of the sons of God. Here is a matter which seems to have been for a time hidden under the rubbish of the Dark Ages—the fact that God not only fore-ordained Jesus, the great Son of God, to be the world's Messiah to deliver them from sin and death, but that He fore-ordained also the selection of a special class from amongst mankind to be the Redeemer's associates and joint-heirs in His Kingdom.

Surely all will admit with me that no god of any people has ever manifested such a love and interest in his creatures as has the God of the Bible—the God of Christianity. It is the love of God which constrains us—draws us (not the threat of eternal torture, which has no foundation in the Bible), and His exceeding great and precious promises work in our hearts both to will and to do His good pleasure.

The Presentation in the Temple, Luke II:22-39.

Golden Text—For mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people, Luke II:30-31.

(1) Verses 22-24—What was the law of Moses, in the matter of purification, for the mother of a male child?

(2) What practical purpose did all this ceremony serve?

(3) Why would it not be a good thing if all children were formally presented to the Lord in the church, in these days?

(4) Why would Jesus not have submitted to all this form and ceremony, if he had at this time been of mature judgment?

(5) Verse 25—Are there degrees of holiness in truly good men, and if so, how would you classify them?

(6) Of which of the real children of God cannot it be said, "and the Holy Ghost was upon him?"

(7) How would you describe the character of Simeon?

(8) Verse 26—Do any good people today have revelations, or premonitions, similar to this concerning future events?

(9) If some good people like Simeon have revelations concerning the future, why may not all good people have them?

(10) Verse 27—What is the difference when a good man goes to a place "by the Spirit," and when he goes and is only conscious of his own judgment directing him?

(11) Verse 28—What benefit was it to Jesus for Simeon having taken him in his arms and "bleeding God?"

(12) Verse 29—Why should it be thought wrong for a man in full health, but in great trouble, to pray that he might die?

(13) If it was right for Simeon to pray for God to let him depart this life, why is it wrong for any aged and infirm person to pray the same prayer?

(14) If a man is not always ready to die, why is there reason to think he is never ready?

(15) Verses 30-32—What is the most glorious sight on the earth a Christian can see?

(16) What effect did the sight of Jesus have upon Simeon, and what effect does it always have upon a penitent sinner?

(17) What is today the greatest civilizing and spiritually uplifting influence in the world, and why do you think so?

(18) Verses 33-35—Who are those that marvel most at the love and wisdom of Jesus; those who see Him for the first time, or those who have been acquainted with Him for a lifetime, and why is it so? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(19) What exceptions are there to the rule that God buries people only that He may help them?

(20) Verses 36-39—What if any exceptions are there to the rule that when truly spiritual people of any faith hear and understand Jesus, their hearts are always drawn to Him?

HISTORICAL CANNON.

Washington, D. C.—The first cannon captured from the British in the Revolutionary War by Benedict Arnold, for several years has stood at the right hand of the main entrance to the War Department. It is much smaller than the other trophies that occupy like positions and is passed by thousands of people every year who do not realize what a part it has played in the history of their country.

An error in the name plate which makes it appear that the gun was captured twice is now being corrected. It was known as a bronze six pounder and was built in Holland for King George of England in 1747.

City Building in Canada.

An expert condemns the common practice on this continent of laying out our cities with the regularity of a box of blocks. This system is the triumph of utilitarianism. We usually build our cities on the plan of a certain sort of bookcase, so that it is easy to add new sections whenever we like, without incongruity.

THE THEATERS

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM

One of the attractions booked to appear at Myers Theatre Friday Jan. 20, is the ever popular Ploke O'Hara in his latest success, "Love's Young Dream." The production which is designed to place Mr. O'Hara on a higher plane than that which he has heretofore occupied in the profession, is necessarily a very elaborate one, both in the way of scenic effects and costuming. The play is by Theodore Hart, Bayre, who furnished the young star with his last success "The Wrecking of the Green," and is a romance of the early part of the eighteenth century in Ireland, when portrayal of the role with marvelous fidelity. The supporting company is a large one, and the production, which has been made under the direction of Mr. Robert E. Irwin, one of the best American producers, is a most stupendous one for an Irish drama. Among the players engaged to support Mr. O'Hara are Marlo Quinn, Magate Fielding, Elizabeth Valdimar, Arthur Hoopes, Daniel Jarrett, J. P. Sullivan, James E. Miller, James R. Geary, George Holt and J. J. Hyland.

edy, infectious humor, fine character drawing and last but not least thrilling realism. However the realism comes in natural and plausible rotation and not dragged in by the hair for mere excitement. Another consideration which enters into the success of this play is that it touches a strong, pure, healthy moral that reaches deep into the hearts of the audience, and in its story it offers many highly dramatic and sensational episodes. The play is staged with special scenic environments. In addition to this excellent offering five feature vaudeville acts will add to the excellence of a real evening's entertainment. He has been in the following stock companies: Giffon Stock Co. in Richmond, Va.; Bush Temple Stock Co., Chicago, and Nell Stock Co., St. Paul, Minn.

He played the leading parts for five years in the production made by the Columbia University Players Club, when at college.

An illustration of the fact that a higher education is of inestimable benefit to a man in the theatrical profession, is the case of Ralph Morgan, who has been chosen to succeed William Elliott as Raymond Florie in the true calling. He has, however, chosen his course, and he feels, as those cannot help but feel who have seen him in the part of Raymond, that he is on the road to a notable success. He has played acceptably in Leoben's Love Comedy, Blue Grass, Blue Mouse, The Bachelor, The Right to Live but in his present in "A House Divided" Mr. Morgan has given the best token of his aptitude for the stage.

IMPORTANT WITNESS.

San Francisco.—The failure of United States officials to find Mrs. David Caplan, wife of the fugitive companion of James B. McNamara, is responsible for the delay in returning additional Federal warrants in Los Angeles, according to official advice received in San Francisco yesterday. United States marshals in California, Oregon and Washington have been vainly searching for the missing witness for nearly a month.

"The grand jury could go ahead and indict," said a United States official who arrived yesterday from Los Angeles. "If Mrs. David Caplan were on hand to testify, she knew all of the men who visited her husband. Some of these men are already under indictment and one of the number is responsible for her disappearance."

"She could tell what interviews her husband had with certain persons, how he acted about the time of the explosion in Los Angeles and why he left San Francisco a day or two after the 'Times' was blown up."

the Green Isle was the abode of that chivalrous, dare devil set of country so cleverly depicted by Love and others. Mr. Bayre has made a study of this period and in placing the story of his play in it, he has made it very attractive on account of the atmosphere with which he has been able to surround it. The role of Carroll is one of those dashing characters in which the novelist would revel, and it finds a ready response in the sympathies of Mr. O'Hara who gives a

"The Sweetest Girl of All." A truly meritorious drama for intensity and strength of the story has few equals in the state. It is a drama which rings with appeal to the finer emotions, combining all the salient features that endear this sort of theatrical presentation to the theatre goer of the present day. It is natural, a wholesome play of human emotions, picturing many, and diverse characters, but all true to nature, with absorbing heart interest, brilliant com-

Butter Prices Drop Unexpectedly Today

All Butter Goes Down in Sudden Slump
as Low as 35c—Overstocking Cause.

Butter prices today on the local market are in such a disorder that nothing definite can be quoted selling for anywhere from 35c@37c and even less than this in some instances. Dealers all over town are not certain how the market is going to end. A large amount of storage butter was placed on the market at reduced prices to hasten the sale and get it off from the hands of the interested parties before it spoiled. Even the highest class product was selling at much reduced prices today and a drop of several cents was made in almost the whole

Mystery of a Deer's Track.
Mystery that surrounded a deer whose peculiar track in mud or snow had long been a puzzle to the Indians of the Grand Teton and Bitter country has been explained by Carl Shortridge of Wilamina. Shortridge is exhibiting one of the forelegs of the deer, around the knuckle bone of which an elk's vertebra is circled. It is the belief of old hunters in this region that the deer when a fawn stepped through the vertebra of the erstwhile elk and that the deer carried the bone through life. Indians often have seen the curious track of the deer and have regarded it as possessed of the evil spirit. The relic when the deer was killed. Sheridan correspondence Portland Oregonian.

is not certain just which office it is, but it's a good place anyway. Mr. Mason has only been back to visit once or twice, and must be getting pretty homesick by this time.

Machinist Joe Smith and Boiler-maker Thomas Walsh did not appear at the shops this morning for their usual daily exercise.

The state boiler inspector was in the city yesterday and made an examination of the local shops.

ENGINE 429 IN SHOPS; DAMAGED IN COLLISION

Engine 429 which ran into the rear end of 84 night before last, is in the repair shop awaiting much-needed repairs. The entire front of the engine is in such a battered condition that it will have to be replaced, even the smoke-stack being broken off near the boiler. Both the braces on the front which are made of steel two inches thick, were broken off and most of them lost. One side of the cab was slightly damaged and the engine was covered with charred pieces of the two cars which it plowed through. It is one of the large compound freight engines and if it had been going at a speed of more than fifteen miles an hour would probably have made a bad smash-up. If the second car of No. 84 had not been filled with lumber the damage would have been considerably more, but as it was no one was hurt and not much of a wreck resulted.

A tongue of low atmospheric pressure extends from the north Pacific coast across the country to the South Atlantic coast. This atmospheric disturbance has been attended by light snows throughout the Northern States, and rains on the Pacific coast. It is warmer in the Mississippi valley and the lake region, and the Southwest, but colder on the northern plains. An area of high barometric pressure has made its appearance over Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and is attended by much lower temperature, 20 to 22 degrees below zero being reported in Manitoba. The part of the area of low barometric pressure east of the Rockies will probably move eastward as a separate disturbance, and the area of high barometric pressure and cold weather now in the Northwest will move southward over the Plains and down the Mississippi valley as a cold wave.
For this vicinity the indications are that the weather will continue cloudy tonight and Saturday. Snow will continue falling today and tonight. The temperature will fall during the night, and reach zero slightly above by Saturday morning.

Painter Had No Choice.
"May I ask," inquires the interviewer, "why you paint none but nude?" "Certainly," replies the painter. "The styles change so rapidly in clothing, that a picture would be out of date almost before the paint is dry."—Chicago Post.

LAST DAY TOMORROW

If you have not already profited by this January White Sale, come Saturday and take advantage of the many bargain opportunities offered. Prices never were lower nor values more noticeably strong.

Never since "Lo," the poor Indian, skulked through these woods and wiped his weeping nose upon the handle of his tomahawk, were Embroideries ever seen in such big quantity and at such small prices as at our place now. There's just as much difference, too, between our prices and the average sale prices as there is between an Indian chief and a lovely piece of Swiss flouncing.

WOMAN'S PAGE

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

Earning Money at Home.

NOT only is it necessary sometimes for the woman who is at home to earn money, if she possibly can; but often, the home woman has a little time on her hands which she would thrifty like to turn into money. How to do this is the problem many of these women are puzzling over.

It is a question that has been pretty well threshed out. It is also in many ways an individual problem, depending upon what the worker can do, and the opportunities her environment offers.

And this is the first thing the money-earner should look to. What scope for her talents does her environment offer? It is this ability to see opportunity that is in a way, the hall mark of genius. Those who have seen opportunity where others saw none are the ones who have risen to dizzy heights of success. However, many a woman is not looking for any such laurel-crowned results. If she can transform a few idle hours into a little money, she will be satisfied.

A field that perhaps she has not thought of is open for the needlewoman. Those women who have responsible business positions have little time not only to mend their clothes, but to do the dozen and one little things about their wardrobe that need doing. Not only must stockings be darned, but collars must be boned, and the stitch in time taken in fine underwear, gloves mended, and a dozen and one things of this sort attended to. A weary business woman after an exacting day in a responsible position has little time or energy for such work. But she usually has the money to pay for it, if it will be done properly.

Among business women of this sort, the woman who wants to earn money at home could, if armed with proper credentials, build up for herself a very good clientele. She could call at a time agreed upon for the things to be mended. If this could not be when the business woman was in her rooms, the articles could be left where the one coming for them could easily get them. If some special directions were necessary, they could be written. Such details could easily be arranged with a responsible party.

And this is the point. The woman who undertakes to do this work should do it in a responsible, careful manner. She should call for the clothing at the time agreed upon, return it when promised, and do whatever is necessary, carefully and thoroughly. Many women have tried this work and failed. But their failure is not because the work itself will not pay, but because they do not perform their part of it in a business-like way. They are working for women used to business methods, who can't stand slipshod, indifferent and dilatory work. And so, after a few weeks' trial, the scheme falls through. But in every business community, there are scores of business women who would welcome with open arms a responsible woman who would mend their clothes right, and return them at the time agreed upon.

Many a busy mother would also welcome some such assistance. In a family where there are many children, or where the mother of the home has no maid, or even where the mother does not like mending or perhaps does not know how to do it, such work probably could be obtained. From a number of such families, the woman who wants to make money at home, could perhaps secure enough darning or mending to net her a nice little sum each week.

This is one of the fields of home work, the needlewoman might find it profitable to look into.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

AN ENGLISH judge has made a list of fifteen of the most common mistakes of life, from which list I have occasionally quoted in these letters. Today I want to add one to the list. It is the mistake of not knowing the difference between water colors and crayons. How strange! Did you ever hear anything so stupid?

In the end it turns out that Fanny, although she may be ignorant of the rivers in Russia or the distinction between crayon and water colors, knows a great many things that her cousins do not, and is decidedly developed along lines in which they are painfully deficient. Incidentally, as anyone who has ever visited Mansfield Park will remember, Fanny was "wino out" to use a slangy but expressive word.

Now, the attitude of Fanny's little cousins at the great house is the attitude which many much older and should-be-wise folks are prone to assume when they find that people are ignorant in any line in which they themselves are proficient.

Say that you are well versed in literature, and in conversation with a friend chances to quote from Rossetti, and your friend lets out the fact that he never heard of Rossetti. With what holy horror you regard him, and how promptly you set him down as an impossible ignoramus. Ah, my friend, suppose he should begin to talk about the international peace situation—surely something as vital and wonderful as even Rossetti's poetry—and should mention great names and events that were all as Greek to you, wouldn't he have as great a right to set you down as impossible and a barbarian?

There are so many thousands of branches on the tree of knowledge and so many millions of twigs on each branch, that if a man were to live all of Methuselah's nine hundred and sixty-nine years, and apply himself to learning all the days of his life, there is no doubt that he would still be ignorant on many subjects.

Doubtless some young apric, who was particularly interested in some tiny twig on the tree of knowledge, might start to talk to this supposition person on this particular subject, and finding that he knew nothing about it, set him down as an ignoramus.

If you look very long and intently at one object and then shut your eyes you can still see that object everywhere. A great many of us look so long and intently at the particular objects that interest us, and close our eyes to other interests so tightly, that we see our own interests everywhere and cannot comprehend those who do not share with us this distortion of vision. "There are not many men in this world after all," says David Grayson, "that it will not pay us to go to school to, for something or other."

If we would only remember this truth, and be willing to go to school to other people occasionally, instead of insisting on always playing teacher ourselves, I think we should make the sixteenth mistake less often.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Mid Winter Desserts Not Too Extravagant With Butter and Eggs

By Alice E. Whitaker.

Some mid-winter desserts are requested but with no specification as to whether they are to be served on special occasions or are wanted for every day use. A variety is given but with eggs and butter at the top notch of prices and fresh fruit scarce there are many good recipes that must be set apart as not available now. When there are no eggs in the house try coffee jelly.

Put a box of gelatine in one cup of cold water to soak an hour. Then one cup of sugar in two cups of boiling water and stir until it melts, add the first. Stir until the gelatine is dissolved then add two cups of rather strong coffee and a teaspoon of vanilla. Strain into small molds and when firm unmold and serve with whipped or thin cream.

Steam a chocolate pudding in cups cover for twenty four hours. Turn into a double boiler using the water in which the prunes were soaked and cook slowly until tender; drain, take out the stones and cut fine then add to a syrup made by cooking the juice and one cup of sugar together.

An old fashioned slump goes well occasionally. Pare and core rather sour apples and slice very thin. Put one quart of the slices into a well buttered deep baking dish. Scatter on a pinch sugar as needed by the kind of apples used and pour in one-half cup of water. Sift two cups of pastry flour with two level teaspoons of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Rub in a rounding tablespoon of butter and mix with three-quarters cup of milk, using more if needed to make a soft dough that can be rolled out.

Roll out to fit the top of the dish, lay over the apple and cover closely. Bake in a moderate oven forty minutes then uncover and bake twenty minutes longer. Serve with powdered sugar and thin cream.

Baked fruit Charlotte: Cut very thin slices from a stale loaf of bread and butter them. Put layers of the bread into a baking dish alternating with layers of any kind of canned fruit. Add sugar according to the acidity of the fruit and flavoring if any is needed.

Or instead of canned fruit use pared and thinly sliced apple. If the fruit is very juicy, like canned berries, add no water otherwise add one-quarter cup to a quart dish. Cover and bake twenty minutes then uncover and bake ten minutes more. Serve with or without a sauce or thin cream.

STRENGTH for today, is all we need.

As there never will be tomorrow; For tomorrow will prove but another day. Each with its measure of sorrow.

SOME USES FOR SOUR CREAM.

There are not many who have never tried it would believe that sour cream makes a delicious white sauce to serve with codfish. Prepare the white sauce just as usual, using the cream instead of the milk.

Sour cream, if not too old, makes a delicious dressing for shredded cabbage. Add a little sugar and vinegar and pour over the cabbage.

Sour cream makes a fine shortening for apple cake and for small cup cakes, to be baked in gem pans.

Sour cream is one that is hard to beat. Use the cream, raisins and eggs and bake with two crusts.

Sour cream makes the best shortening for doughnuts, as they do not dry out as soon as when baking powder and sweet milk are used.

Sour Cream Dressing—Beat a half pint of sour cream with an egg beaten until smooth, thick and light. Mix two tablespoonsful of lemon juice, two of vinegar, a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of sugar and a pinch of mustard and pepper, and add to the cream, beating all the while.

This dressing may be modified to suit different vegetables. Any seasoning may be added that is desired. Onion juice, nutmeg, catsup or any different flavor liked.

Sour cream and nuts with brown sugar boiled together makes a delicious filling.

Sour cream stirred or beaten until butter comes will give a fresh lump of pure, sweet butter, of which many are so fond.

Cookies of all kinds are improved by using sour cream to shorten them.

Sour cream added to cream cheese or cottage cheese adds to its palatability.

Sour cream dressing is liked by many used on sliced cucumbers. This is simply sour cream with a little salt, pepper and sugar added.

ICE CREAM FROM SOUR CREAM MILK.

The Iowa agricultural experiment station has developed an ice cream made from soured milk instead of sweet milk. This is superior to the ordinary ice cream not only in the same respects as buttermilk is superior to sweet milk, but because the select culture used in the development of buttermilk from the fresh whole milk prevents the development of inferior germs. Ice cream made from properly soured whole milk is in every way superior to the ordinary ice cream and far less likely to be contaminated.

Thought for Today

By MRS. ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE.

ENVIRONMENT.

STUDENTS of heredity disagree as to whether we inherit and transmit acquired characteristics, but their disagreement relates more to how changes are brought about under the influence of environment, than to the fact of the change. They practically agree as to result, and that is all we are interested in.

The idea of heredity is commonly associated with individual peculiarities. We think little of our general inheritance, of our normal tendencies, but are greatly impressed with some characteristic that has existed a generation or two in our family. As in habit too much stress has been laid on the north side of the body as compared with its plasticity, so in heredity, we are disposed to emphasize too strongly our specially inherited characteristics, as compared with the vital forces, common to all and supplied by a common ancestry. We think it remarkable to be able to trace a family two or three generations, little thinking that the great common essential tendencies of human life are for practical purposes without limitation.

This is an important distinction, constantly to be borne in mind. From the moment individual life begins another fact than heredity becomes supremely important. It is the environment, the influences and agencies that affect life from thought, climate, food, clothing, occupation, education.

Environment should have the emphasis in fighting off those undesirable family characteristics that oppress and threaten those who live in their shadow. Unfavorable conditions cause the type to deteriorate; better conditions improve it. One endowed with good lungs may remove to unfavorable climate, by habitual disease, or occupation, develop weak lungs and transmit the tendency to his children. While one inheriting a tendency to weak lungs may by change of climate, outdoor occupation and determined effort, strengthen and improve the lungs and transmit the tendency to good lungs to his offspring.

Fads and Fashion

New York, Jan. 26.—Materials of rough or at least, slightly rough texture, are exceedingly popular at the present time. This preference is reflected in a large percentage of the new tailor suitings which the merchants are showing since the first of the year. There are charming stuffs of this kind in all the light, sparkling tones, soft gray mixtures, white and black stripes, checks, etc., and particularly in the brownish tones ranging from deep green through buff and sand and light khaki tones, a flecking of white usually giving softness and character to the coloring.

All of these light brown, yellowish and even shades are, so rumor has it, to be greatly worn, and certainly the manufacturers have proceeded upon that assumption, for throughout all the new fabrics one finds these colorings frequently repeated.

The rough white woollens are made up into fetching long coats for Southern wear, coats on the order of the heavier models in molleton, ratine, etc., which have been epidemic this winter, but of medium weight, and even the smoother serges are smartly fashioned into such ample coveralls.

For the white serge frock all degrees of fluness and all kinds of twills seem permissible, and one finds good looking one-piece frocks in the rougher, more loosely woven white woollens, but a very heavy frock material is always rather a mistake for the woman who has to be economical and cannot afford frocks of different weights.

The new one-piece frock character differs but little in general character from those which were worn this winter and the winter before. They are, generally speaking, narrow and quite straight of line, though in order to be safe safe side the designers have introduced into the skirt of almost every model some form of unobtrusive and secure plaiting, so that the actual skirt width is increased, though the effect is still narrow. One hears from Paris of skirts close fitting at top but with decided ripple toward the bottom, but among the models shown here this month one sees nothing of this movement.

There are rather more long waists, long sleeves and lines just a little curved at the waist than there have been, and it may be that the influence of certain great Paris makers will bear fruit more generally in the spring than it has this winter; but on the other hand there are hosts of new models and high of waist, short of sleeve and showing no variation or another upon the kimono sleeve.

The cascade or curate type of one-piece frock has not yet been laid aside and many of the prettiest new things button straight down the full length of the throat. Trim lines are also popular for the one-piece frock, but they are straight and narrow, and it is only among the more formal frocks that one finds the tendency toward more draped lines.

The taffetas seem predestined to great popularity in the spring. Paris has done much with them this winter and they have had some attention here, but nothing assuming the proportions of a genuine vogue. The changeable or chambray colorings have been most in evidence and are undeniably lovely, but the thing that has given women pause in this matter is that the only way in which this silk is made to subscribe to the modes of the moment is a way which produces effects far from being generally becoming. The changeable taffeta model is, invariably quaint, prone to bound scallops and pullings and ruckings and shirtings and high waists and flounces, and the average woman looks a freak when she aspires to be quaint. With the increasing popularity of taffeta, however, particularly with the enthusiastic Parisian endorsement of this silk in black and white, models more adaptable will probably be evolved, and already good results are being obtained by using taffeta lavishly in connection with wool, as satin has been used during recent seasons.

Indian silks and embroideries have become the vogue in Paris within a few weeks, owing to the grandly successful and magnificent Durbur. Extreme oriental styles are particularly appreciated in millinery at present, and the old-fashioned Indian bandanas, twined and draped into quaint

Any number of new forms in garter styles are being shown, but there is a great preference for the garter shoe which buttons in a straight line on the outside, with top and quarter of cloth, the forepart alone being in leather. Buttons on these boots are large and flat. The same garter forms are noted in low shoes, which also button on the outside, fastening with only three buttons.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A COSTLY BOOK.

By A. W. MACY.

Strolling through the Bodleian library one day, Lord Kingsborough, known in private life as Edward King, happened to notice an ancient Mexican manuscript. He became so interested in it that he resolved to devote his life to the study of Mexican antiquities. For ten years he labored faithfully, and in 1831 the results were published in a monumental work of seven immense volumes, almost two feet square. In these volumes are printed, in vivid colors, facsimiles of the ancient Mexican paintings that are preserved in the great libraries and museums of Europe. In this work he had a definite object, to prove the ancient settlement of Mexico by a branch of the Israelites. But it proved to be his undoing. He spent nearly $150,000 on it, and became heavily involved in debt. He was thrown into prison on account of this debt, and died there at the age of forty-two.

Wake Up With a "Dark Brown Taste?"

Get Rid of It! Run for OLIVE TABLETS

There isn't the slightest need to wake up any morning with a "brown mouth." Light No need to describe it. Dr. Edwards has made "brown mouth" a thing of the past in thousands of homes with his little Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he awakens his liver and bowels never has a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a pimply face, constipation or any other form of bowel or liver disorder.

Take, one just the moment you suspect you are constipated or that your liver is out of order.

Thousands take one at bedtime every night just to keep the bowels regular, the liver in order, the mouth clean and the breath pure and sweet. Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent 17 years in practice and in laboratory experiments before he perfected Olive Tablets.

Why don't you try them instead of the severe kind of laxatives that grip and only afford temporary relief? "Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

Woman Finally Recovers From Nervous Breakdown

Impoverished nerves destroy many people before their time. Often before a sufferer realizes what the trouble is, he is on the verge of a complete nervous breakdown. It is of the utmost importance to keep your nervous system in good condition, as the nerves are the source of all bodily power. Mrs. Anna Kounz, 211 Mechanic St., Pueblo, Colo., says:

"For many years I suffered from nervous prostration; I was unable to do any house work and doctors failed to help me. Remedies I tried from druggists did not do me a particle of good. A neighbor told me a husband about and he procured a bottle. After the first few doses I showed a marked improvement and after taking two bottles I was entirely cured. I have been perfectly well for years and cannot praise Dr. Miles' Nerve too highly."

If you are troubled with loss of appetite, poor digestion, weakness, inability to sleep; if you are in a general run down condition and unable to bear your part of the daily grind of life, you need something to strengthen your nerves. You may not realize what is the matter with you, but that is no reason why you should delay treatment.

has proven its value in nervous disorders for thirty years, and merits a trial, no matter how many other remedies have failed to help you. Sold by all druggists. If first bottle fails to benefit your money is returned. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

The PHANTOM OF THE OPERA

"I was just wanting to see you, sir, and talk to you about it, so that you mightn't have the same unpleasantness as M. Deblenne and M. Poligny. They wouldn't listen to me either, at first."

"I'm not asking you about all that. I'm asking what happened last night." Mame Giry turned purple with indignation. Never had she been spoken to like that. She rose as though to go, glancing up the folds of her skirt and waving the feathers of her dirty bonnet with dignity, but, changing her mind, she sat down again and said, in a haughty voice:

"I'll tell you what happened. The ghost was annoyed again."

Thereupon, as M. Richard was on the point of bursting out, M. Monchammin interfered and conducted the interrogatory, whence it appeared that Mame Giry thought it quite natural that a voice should be heard to say that a box was taken, when there was nobody in the box. She was unable to explain this phenomenon, which was not new to her, except by the intervention of the ghost. Nobody could see the ghost in his box, but everybody could hear him. She had often heard him, and they could believe her, for she always spoke the truth.

They could ask M. Deblenne and M. Poligny, and anybody who knew her; and also M. Isidore Bauck, who had had a leg broken by the ghost!

"Indeed!" said Monchammin, interrupting her. "Did the ghost break poor Isidore Bauck's leg?"

Mame Giry opened her eyes with astonishment at such ignorance. However, she consented to enlighten those two poor innocents. The thing had happened in M. Deblenne and M. Poligny's time, also in Box Five, and also during a performance of Faust. Mame Giry coughed, cleared her throat—it sounded as though she were preparing to sing the whole of Gounod's score—and began:

It was like this, sir: That night, M. Maniera and his lady, the jewelers in the Rue Mogador, were sitting in the front of the box, with their great friend M. Isidore Bauck, sitting beside Mame Giry. Mame Giry here burst into song herself—"Catinian, while you play at sleeping," and then M. Maniera heard a voice in his right ear (his wife was on his left) saying, "Hush! His wife happened to be called Julie. So M. Maniera turned to the right to see who was talking to him like that. Nobody there! He rubs his ear and asks himself if he's dreaming. Then Mame Giry went on with his serenade. . . . But, perhaps I'm boring you gentlemen?"

"No, no, go on."

"You are too good, gentlemen," with a smile. "Well, then, Mame Giry went on with his serenade—"Mame Giry, burst into song again—"Saint, unclothe thy portals holy and accord the bliss, to a mortal bonding and a pardon-kiss." And then M. Maniera again heard the voice in his right ear, saying, this time: "Hush, but Julie wouldn't mind turning a kiss to Isidore!" Then he turns round again, but, this time, to the left; and what do you think he sees? Isidore, who had taken his lady's hand and was covering it with kisses through the little round place in the glove—like this, gentlemen—"rapturously kissing the bit of palm left bare in the middle of her throat gloves."

"Then they had a lively time between them! Bang! Bang! M. Maniera, who was big and strong, like you, M. Richard, gave two blows to M. Isidore Bauck, who was small and weak like M. Monchammin, saving his presence. There was a great uproar. People in the house shouted, 'That will do! Stop them! Kill him! Kill him!'"

Then, Mame Giry, Isidore Bauck, and Box Five, the one on the left, were both empty. The curtain had only just gone up."

"And what did you do?"

"Well, I brought the footstool, of course, it wasn't for himself he wanted it, but for his lady! But I never heard her nor saw her."

"Oh? What? So how the ghost is married?"

"The eyes of the two managers traveled from Mame Giry to the inspector, who, standing behind the box-keeper, was waving his arms to attract their attention. He tapped his forehead with a distressed forefinger, to convey his opinion that the widow Jules Giry was most certainly mad, a place of pantomime which confirmed M. Richard in his determination to get rid of an inspector who kept a lunatic in his service. Meanwhile, the worthy lady went on about her ghost, now painting his general only.

Some Evenings I Find Flowers in the Box, a Rose That Must Have Dropped From His Lady's Bodice.

"At the end of the performance, he always gives me two francs, sometimes five, sometimes even ten, when he has been many days without coming. Only, since people have begun to annoy him again, he gives me nothing at all."

"Excuse me, my good woman," said Monchammin, while Mame Giry tossed the feathers in her dirty hat at the persistent familiarity, "excuse me, how does the ghost manage to give you two francs?"

"Your two francs?"

"Yes, he leaves them on the little shelf in the box, of course, I find them with the program, which I always give him. Some evenings, I find flowers in the box, a rose that must have dropped from his lady's bodice."

"Oh, for he brings a lady with him sometimes; one day, they left a fan behind them."

"Oh, the ghost left a fan, did he? And what did you do with it?"

"Well, I brought it back to the box next night."

Here the inspector's voice was raised.

"You've broken the rules; I shall have to fine you, Mame Giry!"

"Hold your tongue, you fool!" muttered M. Pirmil Richard.

"You bring back the fan. And then?"

"Well, then, they took it away with them, sir; it was not there at the end of the performance; and in its place they left me a box of English sweets, which I'm very fond of. That's one of the ghost's pretty thoughts."

"That will do, Mame Giry. You can go."

When Mame Giry had bowed herself out, with the dignity that never deserted her, the manager told the inspector that they had decided to dispense with that old madwoman's services; and, when he had gone in his turn, he instructed the acting-manager to make up the inspector's accounts. Left alone, the managers took each other of the idea which they both had in mind, which was that they should look into that little matter of Box Five themselves.

CHAPTER V.

The Enchanted Violin.

Christine Danc, owing to intrigues to which I will return later, did not immediately continue her triumph at the opera. After the famous gala night, she sang once at the Duchesse de Zurich's; but this was the last occasion on which she was heard in private. She refused, without plausible excuse, to appear at a charity concert to which she had promised her assistance. She acted throughout as though she were no longer the mistress of her own destiny and as though she feared a fresh triumph.

She knew that the "Comte" de Chagny, to please his brother, had done his best on her behalf with M. Richard; and she wrote to thank him and also to ask him to cease speaking in her favor. Her reason for this curious attitude was never known. Some pretended that it was due to overweening pride; others spoke of her heavenly modesty. But people on the stage are not so modest as all that; and I think that I shall not be far from the truth if I ascribe her action simply to fear. Yes, I believe that Christine Danc was frightened by what had happened to her. I have a letter of Christine's (it forms part of the Persian's collection), relating to this period, which suggests a feeling of absolute dismay:

"I don't know myself when I sleep," writes the poor child.

She showed herself nowhere; and the Vicomte de Chagny tried in vain to meet her. He wrote to her, asking to call upon her, but, despairing of receiving a reply when, one morning, she sent him the following note:

"Monsieur:

"I have not forgotten the little boy who went into the sea to rescue my scarf. I feel that I must write to you today, when I am going to Perros, in fulfillment of a sacred duty. Tomorrow is the anniversary of the death of my poor father, whom you knew and who was very fond of you. He is buried there, with his violin, in the graveyard of the little church, at the bottom of the slope where we used to play as children, beside the road where, when we were a little bigger, we said good-bye for the last time."

The Vicomte de Chagny hurriedly consulted a railway guide, dressed as quickly as he could, wrote a few lines for the valet to take to his brother and jumped into a cab which brought him to the Gare Montparnasse just in time to miss the morning train. He spent a dismal day in town and did not recover his spirits until the evening, when he was seated in his compartment in the Brittany express. He read Christine's note over and over again, smelling its perfume, recalling the sweet pictures of his childhood, and spent the rest of that tedious night in feverish dreams that began and ended with Christine Danc. Day was breaking when he alighted at Lannion. He hurried to the diligence for Perros-Guirec. He was the only passenger. He questioned the driver and learned that, on the evening of the previous day, a young lady who looked like a Parisian had gone to Perros and put up at the Inn known as the Setting Sun.

The nearer he drew to her, the more fondly he remembered the story of the little Swedish singer. Most of the details are still unknown to the public.

Weight of the Blood.

There are 25 pounds of blood in the body of an average grown-up person, and at each pulsation the heart moves ten pounds.

Peculiar After Effects or Grip This Year

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened Condition.

Doctors keep all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more serious sicknesses, such as dreaded Bright's Disease.

Local druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being a herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately apparent to those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50c and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

Modern Teachers Criticized.

Our educators are owl-wise, our teachers are pedants and all their ambition is the turning out of smooth, well-polished philistines. It is certainly unfortunate that the favored type of superintendent of our public education should be such a hopeless philistine, possessed of all the conceit of the mediocre business man. Routine is his ideal. Originality is spurned and suppressed.—Dr. Boris Sidis.

Many Days for Public Worship.

By different nations every day in the week is set apart for public worship—Sunday by the Christians, Monday by the Greeks, Tuesday by the Persians, Wednesday by the Egyptians, Friday by the Turks, and Saturday by the Jews.

Futile Arguments.

There was once an orator, Themistocles, and as he reasoned a Colonel Boanerges in the audience hurled a stone at the speaker. He took it up and showed it to the audience with the remark: "A weighty argument, but not convincing," and the arguments of some are like the stone of the fellow in the crowd.

Didn't Get Even the Brick.

"Did that man hand you a gold brick?" "I should say not," answered the amateur financier; "he sold me an interest in the gold brick on credit and took a mortgage on that together with everything else I owned. Then he called the loan and foreclosed the mortgage and took possession of the gold brick along with the rest."

Bald Heads Not WANTED

Baldness is too Generally Considered a Sign of Advanced Age.

A bald-headed person does not have an equal chance with one blessed with a healthy head of hair, because baldness is too generally accepted as an indication of age. Many large corporations have established an age limit, and refuse to take men over 35 years of age as new employees.

Probably 65% of bald-headed people may regain a good head of healthy hair if they will follow our advice and accept our offer. We have a remedy that we positively guarantee to grow hair on any head, unless the roots of the hair are entirely dead. Their follicles closed, and the scalp has become glazed and shiny. We want people to try this remedy at our risk, with the distinct understanding that, unless it does exactly what we claim it will, and give satisfaction in every respect, we shall make no charge for the remedy used during the trial.

We know exactly what we are talking about, and with this offer back of our statements no one should scoff, doubt our word, or hesitate to put our remedy to an actual test.

We want every one in Janesville who is troubled, dandruff, falling hair, or baldness to try our "Rexall 293" Hair Tonic. We want them to use it regularly—say until three bottles have been used and if it does not eradicate dandruff, cleanse and refresh the scalp, tighten the hair in its roots, and grow new hair, we will return every cent paid us for the remedy for the more asking. There is no formality expected, and we exact no obligation from the user whatever.

We are established right here in Janesville, and make this offer with a full understanding that our success is entirely dependent upon the sort of treatment we accord our customers, and we would not dare make the above offer unless we were positively certain that we could substantiate it in every particular. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—the Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co., 14 West Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wisconsin.
